NSS Unit, Sree Sankara College, Kalady in collaboration with health officers and Asha workers

Report

NSS Unit 048, in collaboration with health officers and Asha workers, initiated a comprehensive Dengue Awareness and Prevention Campaign in the Kalady Panchayath. Health officers conducted informative classes for NSS volunteers, educating them about Dengue, its causes, symptoms, and preventive measures. The classes aimed to equip the volunteers with the necessary knowledge to raise awareness and contribute actively to preventing the spread of Dengue in the community. With the knowledge gained from the health education classes, NSS Unit 048 volunteers collaborated with Asha workers to form dedicated groups. Each group was assigned specific areas within the locality of the college to ensure comprehensive coverage. Volunteer groups, accompanied by Asha workers, conducted house-to-house visits in the designated areas. During these visits, the volunteers interacted with residents, shared information about Dengue, and discussed preventive measures. The focus was on educating households about the importance of maintaining a clean environment, eliminating stagnant water sources, and adopting practices to discourage mosquito breeding. As part of the preventive measures, the volunteer groups actively engaged in the identification and destruction of mosquito breeding sites. Special attention was given to eradicating mosquito eggs in and around households. This hands-on approach aimed to directly mitigate the risk of Dengue transmission by targeting the source of mosquito breeding. The campaign emphasized community engagement as a key strategy for Dengue prevention. The volunteers encouraged residents to actively participate in keeping their surroundings clean, implementing preventive measures, and promptly reporting any signs of Dengue fever.
